DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of group I invention claims 1-2235-43 in Paper No. 11 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 23-29 and 31-34 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rueckes et al., WO 01/03208.
4. Rueckes discloses an electromechanical circuit as claimed. See FIGS. 1-17 where Rueckes teaches the claimed device.
5. Pertaining to claim 23, Rueckes teaches an electromechanical circuit, comprising:
a structure having electrically conductive traces 201, 201 (in FIG. 8) and supports 210 extending from a surface of the substrate 215;
nanotube ribbons 32/18 (as seen in FIG. 2) suspended by the supports that cross the electrically conductive traces, wherein each ribbon comprise one or more nanotubes.
6. Pertaining to claim 24, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein the electrically conductive traces are doped silicon traces (pp. 9, line 9).

Art Unit: 2823

7. Pertaining to claim 25, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein the electrically conductive traces are nanotubes.
8. Pertaining to claim 26, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein the electrically conductive traces are ribbons of nanotubes.
9. Pertaining to claim 27, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein the supports are rows of material and wherein the traces are substantially parallel to the rows (see FIG. 8).
10. Pertaining to claim 28, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 27 wherein the traces are separated from the supports (please note that the traces are separated between the supports).
11. Pertaining to claim 29, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 27 wherein the traces contact the supports.
12. Pertaining to claim 31, Rueckes disclose the circuit of claim 23 wherein the electrically conductive traces are over a layer of insulating material (SiO<sub>2</sub>) to electrically isolate the traces relative to one another.
13. Pertaining to claim 32, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein the electrically conductive tares are each over insulating material to electrically isolate the traces.
14. Pertaining to claim 33, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein ribbons are of a non-woven fabric of nanotubes.
15. Pertaining to claim 34, Rueckes discloses the circuit of claim 23 wherein the ribbons are substantially a monolayer of nanotubes (see examples 1 and 2 on pp. 23 and 24).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

16. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2823

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

17. Claim 30 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rueckes et al., WO 01/03208 as applied to claims 23-29 and 31-34 above, and further in view of Fraser, U.S. Patent 6,443,901 B1.

18. Rueckes discloses a semiconductor device substantially as claimed. However, Rueckes fails to teach the circuit of claim 23 wherein the supports are made from silicon nitride. Fraser teaches a microelectromechanical device having silicon nitride supports. Please see FIG. 1 where Fraser teaches silicon nitride supports 16 as part of a MEMS device. In view of Fraser, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the silicon nitride supports of Fraser into the Rueckes semiconductor device because insulating support 16 may be made of silicon nitride (column 2, lines 50-51).
